SHIP BUILDING IN OREGON .- From a private letter, received at this office, under date of Milwapkee, Oregon, Oct. 1. we learn that one of our New England ship and steamboat builders, Mr. William L. Hanscom, who, within a few years past, has built several fine steam boats and ships in Newburyport, this State, and Portsinouth No. 11 is now constructing a steamboat, 160 feet long, 21 feet wide, and 6 1-2 feet deep, in Oregon, for Lott Whiteomb & Co. to run on the Columbia River. The ship-yard is established on the Willamett River, at Milwaukee; a small, but enterprising and rapidly growing town at the head of ship navigation on that river, and eight miles from Oregon City.

The facilities for ship-building at Milwankee are considered equal; if not superior, to those of any port in the United

"It is seddom that we feconomend what are terrord Patent Medicines to the confidence and patronage of our readers; and, therefore, when we recommend Dr. Hoothoid's German Bitters, we wish it to be distinctly understood that we are not speaking of the nostroms of the day, that are noised about for a brief period and then forgotten about for a brief period and then forgotten a medicine long established, universally prized, and which has met the hearty apprehation of the faculty itself."

Evidente upon evidence has been received (like the foregoing) from all sections of the Union, the hast three years, and the strongest restimony in its tayor, is, that there is more of it used in the practice of the regular Physicians of Philadelphia, than all other mostroms combined, a fact that can easily be established, and folly proving that a scientific preputation will ment with their quiet approval when presented even in this form:
